

To the Postal Regulatory Commission:

Let me preface my remarks here by stating that I am a 74-year old female, somewhat disabled: I have difficulty walking any distance and standing in line is extremely painful for me.

I am very concerned about Postal Service at my local Post Office being affected by Mr. Louis Dejoy's new policies!

I have already experienced delays in receiving my mail: receiving bills too late to pay on time and having to pay a late fee, medical prescriptions delayed in arriving. I am also noticing longer lines at my Post Office and fewer workers serving customers creating long lines waiting for service. The drive-through mailbox was also removed, forcing everyone to park and walk up to post a letter.

I would also prefer that prices remain as they are for Postal services and not be raised exorbitantly. I am, you see, on a fixed income.

The U.S. Constitution states that Post Offices and roads should be provided to all citizens and I believe that Mr. Dejoy's policies are trying to destroy the USPS. One Post Office in my area has already been closed.
